ROTARIANS HEAR FINE ARTICLE TUESDAY NOON

At their luncheon Tuesday noon, July 31, members of the Grenada Rotary Club heard a fine article read to them from a recent issue of The Rotarian touching upon the subject, "A Challenge to the Rotarian—What Manner of Man Is He?", which had been assigned to Vassar Dubard to discuss before the club. He found that the article mentioned so fitly illustrated the topic given him that he read it almost in toto, interspersing the reading with numerous comments.

A. G. Gainey, president of the Exchange Club of Jackson, was a guest at the luncheon and he made a few remarks on the subject of government and the tendency of the present day to drift away from the ideas behind the founding of this great republic.

Wallace Greenhaw, a former Grenadian, now of Marianna, Ark., was also a guest and he expressed his great pleasure at mingling with his many old friends and of his pleasure at seeing the many improvements that have been made in his boyhood home.

Attendance Tuesday was above the average for this period of the year, the club attaining almost the coveted 100% for that day.

46 YOUNG MEN JOIN NEW BUSINESS CLUB

First Regular Meeting of Young Men's Business Club Held Wednesday—Jay Gore Elected President—Organization Will Meet Twice Monthly in Evening—Plan Great Things for Town.

With the election of officers and an initial enrollment of 46 members, the organization of the Young Men's Business Club was perfected Wednesday at noon at a luncheon at the Masonic Temple, served by the ladies of the Methodist church. Jay Gore was elected president, J. H. Neely, vice-president, and Orman L. Kimbrough, Jr., secretary and treasurer, upon the recommendations of the nominating committee consisting of B. C. Adams, W. E. Jackson and L. C. Proby.

Donald Sharp, temporary chairman named at a preliminary meeting two weeks ago, presided at the Wednesday meeting until the new president was chosen when he turned the gavel over to him. After the luncheon, the chairman called upon Mr. Kimbrough to explain the purposes of the gathering since he was one of the five men in the original group that planned the organization. This he did in a few well-chosen words, telling of the first gathering of five of Grenada's young business men a month ago to discuss such an organization. Mr. Kimbrough called attention to the industrial plants that are looking to the south for locations and he said that Grenada was sleeping on its rights if it didn't get to work and secure one or more of them for the town. He spoke of the progress being made in dairying in the county and said that it should be one of the objectives of the club to foster and stimulate interest in dairying looking to the location of milk plants here. The speaker also mentioned the need of aiding the farmer in marketing his products.

Mr. Kimbrough was followed by Dr. J. R. Countiss, president of Grenada College, who painted a dark picture of Grenada's evident lack of progress. He contrasted conditions here with those in other communities no more favorably situated and he showed where other towns had grown at an amazing rate while Grenada was apparently marking time and standing still. He compared the conveniences of 50 years ago with those of today and pointed out the remarkable strides that had been made. Yet, he said, Grenada has not made the progress it should have made to keep up the pace that is being set by her sister towns. He congratulated the young men on getting together as they were and he told them that they had a wonderful opportunity to do some real good for the community. Dr. Countiss spoke of the 700% increase of milk shipments from Grenada during the past twelve months and he said that if this were continued, Grenada would soon have milk plants knocking at its doors. The idea of safety first, the speaker said, was one that should not apply to young men and he pointed out that if "safety first" had prevailed in the years ago many things that are today would not be. He gave many good reasons why factories are leaving the industrial centers of the north and east and he pointed out the advantages of getting them located here. He clearly showed, too, why it would be disadvantageous to get one immense plant that employed several thousand workers, explaining why it would be better to secure several small ones.

There was a great deal of discussion among those present about the frequency of meetings and the hour at which they should be held. It was finally decided that the club should meet twice a month at 7 o'clock in the evening, the regular days to be decided by a committee appointed by the president. This committee consists of J. P. Pressgrove, Donald Sharp and T. B. Revell, Jr.

After the appointment of a membership committee, J. B. Horn and S. H. Horton, adjournment was had subject to call.

There was as much interest and enthusiasm manifested in the new club and its aims as have been seen in Grenada in recent years. Those sponsoring its formation are hopeful that in just a few months the organization can point to many accomplishments and that it can be said truthfully that Grenada's young business men have taken a decided step toward the upbuilding of the community.

Circuit Court Ended July Term Friday After Five Days' Session

Grand Jury Returns Five True Bills—Speculation about Bringing Petty Political Matters before Inquisitorial Body—Indictment Charging White Man with Attempted Rape on Negro Girl Believed Returned—Resolutions of Law and Order League Commend Court and Ask Supervisors to Continue to Exercise Care in Placing Names in Jury Boxes—Thinks Public Should See that Justice Is Done in Case Where White Man Is Charged with Serious Crime.

The summer term of the circuit court adjourned on Friday evening of last week, July 27. Much of the business, practically all the civil litigation, was continued. The grand jury made its final report on Thursday afternoon, having examined 60 witnesses and returned 5 true bills.

The impression just somehow gained currency that somebody, or maybe several somebodies, endeavored to make the grand jury a sort of vehicle to punish some with whom they did not agree in politics. Evidently the complaining parties behind the movement or movements had only petty grievances, and if there had been official law violations, they were purely technical ones. Possibly, however, out of what is presumed to have been brought before the grand jury on these matters a good purpose will be served in the end and will no doubt cause the officers or officers thought to have digressed from the path laid down in the statutes. to follow the law. It may be said in passing just here that it is always best for an official, even though he is serving a good purpose for the time being, to observe the letter as well as the spirit of the law, so that he may look any accuser in the face and tell him where to head in. In this respect at least, the supposed matters that were thought to have been brought to the attention of the inquisitorial body will serve a good purpose at last, however, petty they may seem to have been. Personal or petty political grievances aired with the view of securing indictments are generally regarded to be "petty stuff" unless the offending officer persists in doing a thing that either directly or indirectly brings to him or to his business money. It may be observed that officers cannot be too careful about letting public contracts and about keeping a tab on those who work for the county or the state.

It was stated in these columns last week that the jury which had the case of the State vs Augusta Wiggins was in a deadlock and that it stood 11 to 1 for conviction. That was an error. The Sentinel had been misinformed. As a matter of fact the jury stood 11 to 1 for an acquittal. It appears that the state failed to make the proof against Wiggins that it did against John J. Howard, convicted at the last term of the court on the same charge, that of beng a party to burning the town of Holcomb last August.

It seems to be regarded as a good guess that the grand jury returned an indictment against J. P. Simpson, the "Indian medicine man", for an attempted rape of an eleven year old negro girl on the Rhodes farm five miles west of Grenada some few months ago. What purported to be the facts in this case were briefly referred to in these columns at the time. It will be recalled that it was claimed that Simpson got crazy as a bat after the charge became public and that by some sort of legal legerdemain he was skiddooed to the insane asylum at Jackson and that after some ten days or two weeks there the head of that institution advised that he was not even "nutty" or something to that effect, and thus and thus.

It is a matter of general knowledge that after the alleged crime Simpson went to the Rhodes brothers and that they say that he acknowledged the crime and begged them with tears in his eyes and with an offer of $500. to assist him in getting out of it. One of the leading citizens of Grenada and a most prominent merchant of the town saw him at the negro cabin where the crime is said to have occurred in company with the child and some other smaller children only a short while before it is claimed to have taken place. Besides it is authoritatively stated that the man made a statement to Sheriff Nason that coincides with what the Rhodes brothers say he told them. These and other facts and circumstances too numerous now to mention would seem to make sure that the toils of the law are destined to wrap themselves around Simpson in a way that will carry a lesson to the world.

Attention is directed in this connection to the action of the Law and Order League here this week in which indirect mention is made of this particular case. The Sentinel feels that there is hardly a business man in Grenada, or any other qualified for jury service, who is not desirous that this man be given a fair trial. There is no desire upon the part of any good citizen to do anybody any injustice or to secure a verdict not warranted by the law and the facts. It is a well recognized fact that every man charged with crime is presumed to be innocent in the eyes of the courts until proved guilty—this is what every upright, honest, lawabiding citizen believes and will stand for. Yet as suggested by the Law and Order League, the few who are seemingly in sympathy with every one brought to trial are always on the job and that they attend most serious trials, and endeavor by every hook and turn to prevent the law from having free course.

Judge Allen and District Attorney Crawley are good lawyers and they believe in law-enforcement. Judge Allen holds the scales evenly and District Attorney Crawley is a vigorous and able prosecutor, and when he goes down the line after one charged with crime, one may bet his boots that the guilty almost sweats blood in a trial. It is stated that able counsel will be secured to assist the District Attorney in this case.

Sheriff Nason is to be commended for his part in aiding the court in the trials of those charged with crime and, if his family record is worth anything and what he claims to stand for is to be credited, then the lawabiding may feel sure that the sheriff will do his part in all criminal cases.

Of those convicted of moonshining or bootlegging last week, it may be said that Hon. E. S. Chapman, prohibition commissioner, and his aides furnished the testimony. They trailed these liquor makers and liquor vendors to their lairs. Some six or eight stills were found on one farm controlled by a white man near Leflore. Mr. Chapman is an able, earnest and brave officer and he has worthy men under him.

The following is a list of the liquor law cases and the penalties imposed:

Cleve Peterson, possession of a still, 3 years in penitentiary.

Clinton Sykes, possession of a still 18 months in penitentiary.

James Binford, possession of a still 18 months in penitentiary.

Fred Sisson, possession of a still 18 months in penitentiary.

Robert Jollis, possession of a still, 3 years in penitentiary and for possession of 15 gallons whiskey. 6 months in jail and $300.00.

Jake Moorhead, sale of whiskey, 6 months in jail and $100.00 fine.

Annie Moorhead, sale of whiskey, 3 months in jail.

Alice Moohead, sale of whiskey, 3 months in jail.

Will Myers, sale of whiskey, 6 months in jail and fine of $250.00.

Rainey Hudson, sale of whiskey, 30 days in jail and $100.00 fine.

W. T. (Squirrel) Bell, sale of whiskey, 30 days in jail and $100.00 fine.

Ernest Bell, sale of whiskey, 30 days in jail and $100.00 fine.

Tobe Emmons, sale of whiskey, 30 days in jail and $100.00 fine.

In the cases of Lott Hoskie and Shelly O'Neal, charged with possession of a still, pleas of guilty were entered by defendants and they were given sentences of 18 months each.

At a meeting of the Grenada County Law and Order League Monday evening, the following resolutions were adopted:

"The Law and Order League of Grenada County desires to congratulate and to commend the officers of the Circuit Court on the good work done the past week in securing a number of convictions for violation of the prohibition laws. It is true, we believe, that all those convicted were negroes, but we understand that the officers are convinced that, as usual, white men made the plans and gave both financial and moral support.

"We urge the law-abiding people of the county to take a keener interest in the courts and the execution of the law. While we believe that no man is to be held guilty until the case is proven, there are many cases wherein the accused stands self-convicted, needing only the mandate of the court to fix the proper penalty. In making this appeal to our good citizens, we remind them that those who condone crime and especially those in sympathy with some individual lawbreaker are usually present in

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE DECRIES PREJUDICE

At Unveiling of Monument to Federal Officer, President Refers to Civil War and Makes Plea for Views of South—Patriotic Utterance that Speaks Well for Chief Executive.

The Sentinel is quoting herewith that part of the President's speech in which reference is made to the South and the problems it had to deal with immediately after the Civil War. The utterance was a patriotic one and is but another one of the many thousand things which are happening and which have been happening for a number of years which goes to prove that the great leaders all over the country recognize no sectional or dividing lines and that these great men now realize that both sides had good reasons for the faith they had and for which they fought during the Civil War. All honor to President Coolidge for his noble utterances. Here are the President's words:

"As the intensity of opinions and their application to the practical affairs of life of each side developed, they necessarily gave rise to what was described as an irrepressible conflict. That generation of the south found itself involved in a net of circumstances which very much of its best thought undoubtedly deplored, but from which it was totally unable to extricate itself. We can see now that instead of being charged with all the blame, they were in many ways entitled to sympathy. Our country was all involved in a great national tragedy from which it could extricate itself only by an appalling national sacrifice. That tragedy involved both the north and the south. The conditions which brought about the great conflict were national conditions. It was humanly impossible for either section of itself to furnish an adequate solution. If there was to be an extension of freedom under constitutional guaranties it had to be brought about by national action. Any adequate expiation required the cleansing of the heart of the whole nation. This could only be accomplished through an immeasurable sacrifice made in the tears of our women and the blood of our men.

"When the great tragedy was passed, when the tumult of the conflict had ceased, the north found itself depleted, but the south was entirely prostrated. It was under the necessity of rebuilding its whole social and economic structure. The recovery of the north began more early, because it was not compelled to establish its methods of life and of business on new theories. It was possible to build on the solid foundations that were already laid. In the south it was necesary to go through the long and painful process of erecting an entirely new structure. The old methods of existence and of business had to be discarded and new system established. This would have been most difficult under any circumstances. Coming at the end of four years of conflict, it was well-nigh impossible. But the task was performed slowly and imperfectly at first, but in recent years with a rapidity that seemed scarcely possible.

"The agriculture which had been the dominant activity of the old south was gradually revived. Then came the development of its natural resources of coal, iron, and water power and the growth of great manufacturing enterprises. Minerals and manufactured products are today almost twice the value of its agriculture. Of our overseas commerce, nearly 40 per cent of the tonnage is from southern ports. Since 1900 the value of manufactured products increased from about $1,500,000,000 to about $9,500,000,000. Capital invested in cotton manufacturing increased from about $130,000,000 to about $1,000,000,000. Deposits in banks in the same period have risen from $700,000,000 to $7,000,000,000. In public improvements the progress has been very marked. In 1904 less than $13,000,000 were spent on highways. In 1925 this amount had reached $316,000,000. In 1900 only about $35,000,000 were laid out for public schools. In 1924 this amount had risen to over $350,000,000. It is perfectly apparent that in progress and prosperity the south is going forward in a way which it could never have done under the old system. It is no wonder that it is referred to now as the new south.

"It has been demonstrated that what never could have been created under a condition of servitude is the almost natural result of a condition of freedom. Human nature has been so designed that men are only at their best when they are permitted to live like men. It is when they are released from the bondage of the body, given control over their own actions, receive the returns from their own labor, and released from bondage of the minds so that ignorance and superstition are replaced by education and moral influences, that most progress is made toward an enlightened civilization."

Wilson on Stump Denounces Press; Talks 50 Minutes on Stephens', 12 on Own Record

In the Hattiesburg American of uly 26 appeared a news story ritten by the editor, Francis S. Harmon, about Webber Wilson's peech there the night before. Vebby, it seems, took occasion to enounce the press. Hattiesburg, it ill be remembered, is a part of Vebber's congressional district nd the county of Forrest in which Hattiesburg is located adjoins the ounty of Jones where Webber resides, it would therefore appear hat there is going to be a rent in Vebber's political breeches before e gets started away from home.

In view of the candidate's castigation of the press and his war whoop about some other matters, the news story in the American was preceded by a note from editor Harmon which is also being reproduced. The Sentinel is giving the exact headlines to the story as they appeared in the American, which, by the way, is a very ably edited newspaper and just as with all other newspapers, tries to be fair in all its news stories. The following matter is quoted from the American:

"(Editor's note: Despite Webber Wilson's vicious attack on the press which he labels a "bunch of lying newspapers," The American will continue to report, to the best of its ability, all legitimate news pertaining to Mr. Wilson's race for United States Senate. Though the newspapers are assailed for printing news "unfit for hogs," Mr. Wilson would doubtless be the first to make the charge of unfairness if his campaign activities were not given publicity. The American prefers, however, to depend upon its own political writers and their ability accurately to tell what happened and what was said, rather than print the press agent handouts. This newspaper, futhermore, is acting within its own prerogatives and in accord with precepts of the profession as practiced by the best newspapers in the country to publish interpretive and analytical accounts under the signature of the writer.)

By Francis Harmon

"Vigorous denunciation of the newspapers and a repetition of his charges that Senator Hubert D. Stephens had knowledge of patronage scandals in Mississippi and did nothing about it, featured Wednesday evening's address of Congressman Webber Wilson at the Forrest county courthouse in behalf of his candidacy for a seat in the United States Senate. The courthouse auditorium was filled, a careful check of the crowd indicating the presence of 650 people about evenly divided between men and women, with a good sprinkling of children. The band from State Teachers College gave a concert for an hour preceding the speaking.

"Congressman Wilson spoke for one hour and 35 minutes, the time being consumed as follows: Ten minutes by way of introduction and a review of his previous successes; 50 minutes devoted to an attack on Senator Stephens and the newspaper men of Mississippi; 12 minutes to a defense of his own record; 10 minutes to his attitude on American foreign policy, and 12 minutes to his conclusion."

The "Caravan of Automobiles Did Not Show Up".

In the Hattiesburg American appeared a follow-up editorial July 28, which dealt with what Mr. Wilson had to say about the press and which exposed the advance preparations of his speeches handed to the press before Wilson ever speaks anywhere. Note what the American says about the "CARAVAN of automobiles". The account of Webber's Hattiesburg speech, the American states, was sent that newspaper, just as it was no doubt sent all other Mississippi dailies, by his publicity stunt headquarters. Note what the American says about agreeing to eat the whole "seven page mass of glaring inaccuracies", if Wilson said what his Jackson headquarters said he said. But here is a part of that cleverly and skilfully written editorial which exposes the young man in a way that should make him ashamed of himself:

"At the very moment that Candidate Wilson was resorting to the favorite indoor sport of the Mississippi demagogue and 'cussing' the papers, the editor of The American, sitting a few feet away from him, had a seven-page, typewritten, prepared-in-advance 'report' of his Hattiesburg speech delivered in person by Wilson's campaign manager, an exact copy of which was mailed to other daily papers in Mississippi, Memphis and New Orleans from his Jackson headquarters for immediate publication. Extracts from this 'home-brew' account of his Hattiesburg rally should prove interesting and humorous to those who were present and are therefore in a position to judge of the accuracy or inaccuracy of the report which Wilson had his paid campaign workers to prepare and hand out in advance.

"Since at least two daily papers circulating in Mississippi swallowed the seven pages of press agent stuff, any who doubt the accuracy (not the veracity) of the following quotations from this prepared pabulum for 'the lying press' may easily check it.

"Here is a paragraph from the Commercial Appeal, which the Jackson Daily News refused to 'stomach,' as sent out in advance to The American and other papers:

"'Wilson's friends from all over the district joined with Hattiesburg and Forrest county citizens in the demonstration for him, where much of his fame as a prosecuting attorney was gained during the four years he served as district attorney prior to going to Congress. A CARAVAN of automobiles bearing Wilson's friends from Jones county came over from Laurel and Ellisville. Several cars came down from Jackson and Gulfport.'

"If anybody saw 'the caravan of automobiles' from Jones county, we ask them kindly to step up and report.

"Wilson's publicity agents, prepared in his own headquarters and included in their 'report' of his speech with his characteristic fire, and invited his hearers to 'journey over to Philadelphia next Tuesday to the Neshoba County Fair, when Hubert will be present. I am afraid, however, that Perry Howard and Ed L. Patton, the gold dust twins of corruption in Mississippi patronage, can't be there with him. They are too busy now trying to keep out of jail for selling Federal offices in Mississippi.'

"If Webber Wilson made the statement inclosed within the above quotation marks, the writer will eat this whole blooming seven-page mass of glaring inaccuracies, even if it makes him sick.

"If there have been 'newspaper lies' during the present senatorial campaign, it has been because some daily papers, The American among the number, have been trying to 'tote fair' with both the candidates in their news columns, and as a consequence published the stuff which has emanated from Wilson's campaign headquarters.

"This editorial has not attempted to deal with any other phase of the senatorial race except Webber Wilson's malicious and unwarranted attacks on 'a bunch of lying newspapers' which, as a matter of fact, have erred in giving space to a single line of his campaign handouts".

MR. VERNON MAXEY

Mr. Vernon Maxey is one of the young men of the Oxberry community, district 5. He is a son of W. F. Maxey and of Mrs. Emma Maxey, daughter of Mr. T. J. Staten, both father and mother having passed away some years ago. But these good parents left the imprint of their characters on their son, who is known by the few who have got to be intimately acquainted with him, as a trustworthy, lawabiding, honest, industrious and sensible young man who stands for the best things in life and who believes in making his convictions known when necessary about matters that pertain to the welfare of the public. Such a character bids fair to be a leaven to any community. It is refreshing in this hurry, rushing and, in some measure, lawbreaking age, to see a young man who may yet win his spurs and make his way in life, that is bold to proclaim himself when necessary for the things that are right and that are backed by those sacred teachings without which life would not be worth while.

W. R. WATKINS DIES IN CLEVELAND, OKLAHOMA

From the Cleveland, American, published in Cleveland, Pawnee County Oklahoma, of July 26, the clipping which follows was taken. It records the death of Mr. William B. Watkins, who was reared just over the border line of this county and in Carroll County, twelve miles southwest of Grenada. He came of a good family. He was known as being in every way trustworthy and it is no surprise that he went west and still further established his good name. The Oklahoma newspaper stated:

"A host of friends are grieved at the sudden and untimely death of William R. Watkins, well known local citizen and employe of the Gypsy Oil company, who died on the operation table in the Sand Springs Hospital early Wednesday morning immediately following an operation for obstruction of the bowels.

"He had not yet revived from the anaesthetic when death came. Only a few friends and neighbors knew of his illness.

"Funeral services will be held at the M. E. church at 10 o'clock Friday morning, the pastor, Rev. Fred Stolz, officiating. The remains will be laid to rest in Woodland cemetery.

"Mr. Watkins was born and reared in Mississippi. He came to Cleveland several years ago with his family and was a useful citizen, ever active in the advancement of the religious and social interests of the community. He was a member of the local board of education. He was a member of the Methodist church and of the Odd Fellows lodge. The widow and several children survive."

The deceased was a brother of Mr. E. C. Watkins of Oklahoma City. His demise will be learned with regret by relatives and many old friends and acquaintances in this county, to whom The Sentinel tenders sincere sympathy.

NOTICE

On account of the lateness of crop conditions many requests have been made that we postpone our associational meeting two weeks. Therefore the Grenada County Baptist Association will meet at Pleasant Grove Church, 17 miles east of Grenada, on Wednesday, the 19th of September. All churches in Grenada County please take notice and govern yourselves accordingly.

FIELD'S DAIRY TO HAVE OPENING DAY AUGUST 9

Sentinel readers will recall that several weeks ago there appeared in this paper an article telling of some great improvements being made by Field's Dairy, just south of Grenada. Mention was made of much new equipment that was planned for this already modern dairy in order to make it one of the most modern, sanitary and up-to-date dairies in this section.

Mr. B. O. Field, proprietor, announces that he will be ready to show to the public on next Thursday afternoon, Aug. 9th, beginning at 3 o'clock, such an establishment. He wants the public to come and inspect his dairy thoroughly. He wants them to see how cows are milked electrically, he wants them to see how the cow heat is taken from the milk and he wants them to see just how he and his assistants handle the milk from the cow to the bottle, to insure its absolute purity. The Mississippi State Board of Health has some rigid requirements regarding the operation of dairies in this state and the visitor to Field's Dairy will go away convinced that every regulation of the board is more than complied with there.

Chocolate milks will be served free to every visitor who inspects the plant on next Thursday afternoon. A cordial invitation is extended all to be there.

GOSPEL TENT MEETING BEGINS NEXT SUNDAY

The Church of Christ will begin a fifteen-day tent meeting next Sunday morning, Aug. 5, at 10 o'clock on the public school grounds. Evangelist R. L. Colley, of Branan, Okla., will do the preaching and D. J. Blount, of Paragould, Ark., will have charge of the song services.

Mr. Colley has been in Grenada before, having conducted a most successful meeting here last year. He is an earnest, sincere young man and the excellence of his sermons shows that he is a careful student of the Scriptures.

Mr. Blount has received most favorable comment wherever he has been and his singing has lent much to any revival he has been associated with.

The public is cordially invited to attend the services which will be held twice daily at 10 a. m. and 8 p. m. through Sunday, Aug. 19.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL SYSTEM — COURTESY, EFFICIENT SERVICE, ALWAYS

A Favored Territory

The lines of the Illinois Central System are woven into the economic heart of the United States. Within the fourteen states that are crossed or touched by this railroad are the nation's centers of population, improved farm acreage, agricultural production, mineral production, industrial activity and railway mileage.

The 38,000,000 people of this territory consume approximately one-third of all the domestic products of the entire country. Besides they constitute a greater market for the world's goods moving in international trade than any foreign nation except Great Britain, Germany and France.

These fourteen states contribute nearly one-half of the two billion dollars' worth of farm crops and livestock exported annually from the United States, besides helping to sustain the inhabitants and industries of other states. Within these fourteen states are produced 24 per cent of the world's cotton, 13 per cent of the world's tobacco, 40 per cent of the world's corn, 16 per cent of the world's oats and 15 per cent of the world's swine.

These states likewise produce 17 per cent of the world's lumber, 13 per cent of the world's coal, 9 per cent of the world's petroleum and 33 per cent of the world's iron ore. They have more than 52,000 manufacturing plants, employing more than 2,000,000 wage earners and turning out every year products valued in excess of $16,000,000,000.

Railway transportation is a powerful factor in the economic life of this great central region of the United States.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

President, Illinois Central System.

LIFE AS I SEE IT

(By T. E. Winborn, Jr.)

Resting on Eternity's Bosom—
An Alliance of Dreams—
The Hundredth Man—

In Calvary cemetery in Memphis lies the dust of that great southern editor and gentleman, C. P. J. Mooney. No emblazoned monument invokes the public's gaze as they pass, but rather a simple and yet noble shaft rears itself above that great man's grave to mark where the soul left the clay to rest on eternity's bosom.

On that shaft are but twelve words above the editor's beloved signature. They are taken from one of his great editorials on Jesus, and they express the magnificence of Mooney's character. They are, "Jesus spoke the truth, he lived the truth, and truth is eternal."

Nothing that could be said of C. P. J. Mooney could endear him more to the hearts of those that loved him than those words engraved on that simple slab over his grave. Truth was his watchword, and his great success as editor and business man was largely due to his having that great element of virtue as his watchword. We all must die, but death loses its sting when we can look back on a long life of truth as that of C. P. J. Mooney because then, with him, we can say that we are Resting on Eternity's Bosom.

What makes marriage so complex is its longness. Marriage was never intended for just a few years but forever. If marriage was but to be considered physically, it would last only a few years, but marriage must be considered spiritually if it is to attain to anything like success.

For the first few years of marriage it is true the physical beings of the twain do have a great deal to do with their happiness but, after that, their beauty and physical attraction begins to wane and other matters enter into the partnership, and then it is that the future happiness of the pair depends to a large extent upon the similarity or dissimilarity of their dreams.

Perhaps the woman dreams of social affairs and activities while the man's dreams are wholly of business with only a little trivial relaxation now and then. Here there can be no hope of a happy marriage. It is like trying to sew calico to velvet. It won't work.

Or maybe, the woman's dreams are of sports and athletic activities while the man thinks only of the fine arts and letters and literature. Again they can find nothing in common, and an unsuccessful marriage is sure to be the result. You can't mix oil and water.

And perhaps the woman dreams of a home where man and wife are companions each sharing mutually the business and financial responsibility of the partnership, while the man dreams of a home where the wife is but a hand-servant put there to pet and baby him and to have no hand in the business of making a living for the family. No two natures so far apart can hope to have a successful marriage. The affair just can't run out.

No, marriage doesn't really depend upon whether one of the two is high born and the other of love degree, or whether one is born to aristocracy and the other to common stock or whether one is rich and the other poor. All that doesn't really matter. They can conceivably get along. But what does matter and where a disastrious alliance is sure to come is when the dreams of the two are vastly different.

When one dreams of the stars and the other of tomorrow's cake, when the ambitions and aspirations of the twain are as far apart as the poles, then there is sure to be a mesalliance. Because, after all, marriage is an alliance of dreams.

There is something about the hundredth man that marks him above the average. It is courage, unconquerableness, do-it-or-die-iveness or whatever you may call it, but it's there in the hundredth man. Some people account for the quality by the breeding as with animals, but too many fine parents have moral weaklings and too many superior men come from common stock for heredity to be trustworthy in the matter.

But, account for it as you may, the quality exists in the hundredth man, that certain stubbornness of purpose, that firm setness of will that finer toughness of moral fibre.

We see it in in the prize-fighter who doesn't know when he's beaten, in the soldier who dies fighting, in the little woman who does work beyond her strength for one she loves.

Of all the noble qualities that have lit up this old earth with grandeur, I think that this quality of the hundredth man is the finest.

It has helped more souls to get a firmer hold on their maker, it has given more courage to faint hearts and has raised more mortals nearer immortality than any other quality that could be practiced.

Most of us are quitters. We krow when we reach our limit. We are used to reaching the last ditch. But the hundredth man is a thoroughbred. He never fails because he never gives up. He never whines because he doesn't know how. He carries on long after most of us are through. There's no use trying to drown him because he won't sink. There's only one thing to do and that is hand him success. He will take it anyway so we may as well give him the prize right off. The hundredth man makes the world worth living in.

"I took Cardui at intervals for three years, and have been in good health since last fall," says Mrs. Noble J. Hayes, of Waterloo, S. C. "My improvement after taking a course of this medicine was really remarkable.

"I am much stronger and can accomplish so much more work now. My weight increased twenty pounds, and my color is good.

"For a long time I had been feeling poorly. Some days I dragged around the house and had not enough energy to do my housework.

"I worried a lot about myself. I did not seem like myself, and my nerves were all on edge. I did not sleep well, and my appetite left me.

"I found Cardui to be an excellent tonic. After I had taken it a few weeks, I began to pick up and to gain in weight and strength."

DIZZY
Lost Appetite

Mr. M. F. Fink, of Harrisburg, N. C., says: "It must have been fully twenty-five years ago that I began taking Black-Draught regularly.

"I was in town one day, and while talking to a friend I stooped over to pick up something. When I straightened up, I felt dizzy. I spoke to him about this and how I had not felt like eating.

"My friend told me to take some Black-Draught. I knew my mother had used it, and so I bought a package. When I got home, I took a good, big dose, and the next night, another. In a few days I felt much better.

"A good many times I have had this dizziness and a bad taste in my mouth, or headaches, and then I take Black-Draught and get better. I do not have to take it very often. We buy from five to seven packages a year." Try it! EX-157

Why Not Enjoy Life?

New Orleans, La.—"For one year I could not stand on my feet five minutes nor do any kind of work. I suffered with sick stomach, headache, backache and pains in my sides. I went to several doctors and the only thing they could see was an operation, but I could not make up my mind to have it.

My sister told me of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I felt better with the first bottle, so I kept on taking it. I only weighed 89 pounds when I started and now I weigh 141. I don't know what it is to have a pain or a cramp any more."—Mrs. Pauline Daniel, 3136 Constance St. Fluid or tablets. Any dealer.

OUR CHOICE FOR U. S. SENATOR
HUBERT D. STEPHENS FOR RE-ELECTION

SOMEBODY MAY HAVE TO TIGHTEN GABLE END OF WEBBER'S TROUSERS.

If reports which come to us be true, one of the candidates for the United States senate in Mississippi is acting the part of a real rude and naughty boy and it may be necessary for somebody to tighten the gable end of the young man's trousers and use the larger end of a paddle. Reference is had to Hon. Webber Wilson now serving in the lower house of congress and presuming to run against Hon. Hubert D. Stephens for the United States senate. Filling a place in the senate is a man's job; the senate is no place for children or boys, however large they may be. In truth Webber thinks he is running but he is just going at a snail's gait. Hubert Stephens is exceeding the speed limit.

We are told that Webber refers to The Sentinel as a "15 cent little sheet" and that he makes other statements akin to this about the paper. Webber is a wise man, he will admit it, and he ought to know what he is talking about, but why waste time and energy over a 15 cent little newspaper unless that newspaper was a part of the brick wall that is going to keep him from attaining that which he is seeking and for which he has shown himself wholly unqualified? Other politicians before you, Webber, have hopped on The Sentinel but we give you the same invitation that we have given others and what the red hot stove said to the cat, "Hop on Malindy".

It comes to us that while Webber is renting the air and distending his nostrils in some of his effusions on the stump, he is saying some mighty smutty things about The Sentinel and that he rolls as a sweet morsel under his tongue an article or editorial which appeared in this paper several years ago which said some nice things about this boy, Webber.

We often make extravagant statements about our handsome boys. Despite how we dote on them, they often get into bad company or become afflicted with a sort of diarrhoea which particularly manifests itself in their tongue while at the same time their brains show a dormancy that is not only regrettable but lamentable.

Webber did not seek our advice about thinking that he could even run for the United States senate. Of course he did not have to consult us but, had he done so, we might have saved him from a humiliating defeat and one that will most likely crucify him politically. We are persuaded that he did not consult a great many of those who are personally fond of him and who are his real friends about making the race he now thinks he is making.

His conduct in this campaign shows that he has read of the man who kicked at the moon, but undoubtedly he failed to see the humor in the incident. Webber seems to have got it into his cranium that the kicker's feet actually took off one section of the moon. And, like the proverbial gentleman goat, he has shown that he is trying his kickers, but alas and alack, he is finding out that kicking does not get one anywhere in running for the United States senate, and especially against Hubert Stephens.

Yes, Webber is doing that which the gods would always have a man do when they get ready to destroy him—he's mad, they say. He assails and assaults Hubert Stephens and then turns upon the press of the state that wrath of the disappointed and cajoled. Really we are loath to believe that Webber is mad at anybody except his lonesome self, and we imagine that he gets off behind somebody's barn early every morning and there induces the proverbial Maud to perform a very important feat on the ulterior of his anatomy.

If Webber continues to be naughty about The Sentinel's position in this campaign and persists in parading what appeared in this paper several years ago about him while at the same time giving manufactured reasons for our support of Hubert Stephens, we shall undertake to show him the difference between then and now. If he puts such great store about what The Sentinel then stated, why does he not go further and relate the fatherly advice the then editor gave him? Let's have it all.

Webber will get a great deal out of this campaign that may serve him worth while besides the burning lesson that is in store for him.

We are sure that he is well pleased with his own pulchritude, and that he has enjoyed beyond measure seeing his picture stuck up on the road sides, on store fronts, posts, bridges, mule barns and chicken roosts all over the state. This of itself we dare say has been a balm to his inner soul. But Webber, remember Absalom. He was good looking and was exceedingly fond of prancing around among the daughters of Eve who would lend their ears to his flattery. Absalom did just what Webber is doing—he thought the breeches somebody else had placed on him were entirely too small for him, and lo the bitter end that befell him.

We shall not suffer ourselves to get angry with our young friend. After this campaign is over and Webber finds that he has come out at the little end of a very small horn, he will need sympathy and much of it. Webber, we shall be ready to take you where you belong. There is always a place for the prodigal with us.

If this paper has said anything unkind about Webber or has misrepresented him in this campaign, we are unaware of it. There have been but few editorial expressions up to now about the race for senator. It is true that one can read that we think Webber has been acting a mule's papa in making some of his statements on the stump and in the character of the campaign he has been waging. We have every reason to feel most kindly towards him and to want to remain his friend. Simply because a newspaper does not think one of its friends qualified for a certain office does not mean that the back of the paper's hand is forever to him or that the paper would want to banish that friend to the Fiji Islands or to denominate him a progeny of Liliuokalani of once Honolulu fame. There is lots of good in Webber yet and he has time enough if he will try to correct the egregious blunder he is making and to set himself right with the best thought of the state.

But Webber, you certainly need to tarry in Jericho a long, long while.

YOUNG MEN MAKE MOVE IN RIGHT DIRECTION

The younger men of Grenada perfected this week an organization that is to be called the "Young Men's Business Club". None is to be admitted over 50 years of age.

These younger men think that some of the older ones have been walking up the hill and down again, that they have been talking for these years about putting new enterprises in Grenada, about getting some industries that would have a pay roll all the year round, that would serve to encourage the farmers to enlarge their truck patches and their gardens and to raise sheep and goats and chickens and other things for the local market, thereby making it so that money would be circulating in Grenada County through the entire twelve months.

Factories are pulling up stakes in New England and coming south. There are many reasons for this. The cotton factories are coming primarily for the reason that it is necessary for them to get near the cotton fields in order to save the cost of freight on the raw product. Other factories are coming for the reason that there is a mongrel mixture of labor in the northern sections of the country, many socialists and foreign minded people, all of which multiplies the labor problem and causes those who have their money in manufacturing institutions to sit with uneasy minds.

It is the purpose, it is understood, of the organization formed to awaken a proper interest in these things which, when done, will prompt those who have money to show enough interest in new enterprises to make small investments. When local people do this, a new business feels that it is casting its lot among those who have a personal interest in its success and who will do what they can to see that a square public deal is measured to factories and other big institutions that require a great deal of money and still more brains and much experience.

PRESERVE THE GAME AND THE FISH.

County Game Warden, Robert E. Hall, is to be commended for the earnest and the faithful and intelligent efforts he is making to enforce the game laws of the state. Like almost everything, especially our timber and our lands, we have been criminally profligate in killing game and in catching and destroying the fish of not only this county but of the entire state.

The game law was not enacted any too early. If the law is not enforced, it will not be many years until experiences in hunting and in fishing will be relegated to the limbo of the past. When one hears of hunting and fishing experience unless this law is enforced he will think of the Indian stories and some of those hairsplitting experiences which startled our fathers in the early days of this state.

There has been a wanton waste of fish and other game. People have killed and caught at times way beyond their needs, and until it has been almost a sin.

Even today, the transient are dropping in our lakes and using dynamite. If there is any law to place such characters behind prison bars, they should be there.

Game Warden Hall is in earnest about what he has been named to do. He is entitled to, and should have, the aid and cooperation of the people of the county. It is a matter of importance to land owners. It is still of even greater importance to our children. It means a great deal to prospective purchasers of homes to know that in the localities in which they are prospecting there is plenty of wild game and an abundance of fish.

Help the game warden and thereby we help ourselves.

PAT HARRISON ON THE FIRING LINE.

In a speech brimming full of party loyalty and expressing almost a profound reverence for the principles and the traditions of the Democratic party, and not forgetting to call attention to the harrowing experience that beset the South after the Civil War, Senator Pat Harrison placed himself squarely and unequivocally on the party firing line and behind Al Smith and Joe Robinson in a speech made at the Patron's Union Fair, Lake, Mississippi, Wednesday of this week. It was a speech that carried forked lighting. It was a speech that reminded the people of the South of their old friends when the hours were dark and when the clouds hung low and ominous and when it put men's soul to the test in the North to show friendship for the South. Pat said that he could not believe that the people of the South would forget everything else over one issue, which the Republican candidate has said is "an experiment".

Pat is no slacker. He does not pout when he does not get everything his own way. He asks all his party associates to show the spirit of a good loser and to come squarely up to the support of the candidates of the Democratic party for President and Vice-President. Had those who can see see nothing but "dry" got all they wanted at the Houston convention, they would have demanded, and would have a right to expect, the socalled "wets" of the East and the North to stand by the ticket. Pat wants those halting about party loyalty to take the medicine that they would have given others.

Our friend Webber is in a mell of a hess because of his "One Bill" record in the congress, and yet he is making all sorts of charges against Hubert Stephens. But like the old negro who called at the bank to draw his money, the charges against Stephens are "bustin' right in his face", yes and under his feet, and behind him and before him.

Alf Stone, of Dunleith, Mississippi, answered Webber Wilson's charge against Stephens that Stephens had played the delta double on the flood control bill. Stone just knocked Webber clear out of the water, and stated that there was not a more useful man in the senate than Hubert. The Levee Board also swatted Webber in this flood control charge against Stephens.

SYMPATHY FOR COL. R. H. HENRY.

The sympathy of a wide circle of friends not only in Mississippi but all over the country goes out to Col. R. H. Henry in the going away of his wife, which sad event took place at the Henry home in Jackson August 1.

Side by side have they walked through these years, loving and trusting each other and thinking and planning. But alas the tie is broken. The golden bowl is shattered and the silver cords are loosened and the sweetheart of the Colonel's early life, his counselor and companion for over a half century, has finished her course and her spirit has gone back to the bosom of a loving and ever gracious Father. "She is not dead, but sleepeth" so far as this life is concerned, but her departure but enriches the beauty and the glory of that blessed land for which thinking and believing men are striving and adds the greatest possible incentive to the honored and esteemed husband left behind to make sure of his entrance so that he may again join the good woman who would have sacrificed her life, if need be, for him. Happily for Col. Henry and his departed, in the years ago they talked over their soul's eternal interest and plighted their faith to God and have struggled to honor His name ever since. The Sentinel tenders the sincerest sympathy to Col. Henry and the five children left behind.

WEBBER WILSON'S HOME NEWSPAPER BELTS HIM.

Webber Wilson, like the maddened serpent, in the absence of anything else to strike is hitting newspapers. Nearly every one of the newspapers in the state are either openly against Webber or are giving him a mighty cold shoulder.

> In his criticism of the newspapers, Webber Wilson seems to have forgotten his hound story he told so often while running for Congress. The moral of the story was the wisdom of using tact in business and out.
> Mr. Wilson has no more right to group all the newspapers in his charges than a newspaper would have to group all politicians in one class. If a good newspaper makes a mistake it will be glad to correct it. If a reliable newspaper quotes Mr. Wilson incorrectly, or misrepresents him in any way it will be glad to apologize. If Mr. Wilson has a complaint to make against some one paper or several papers, he should make the complaint first to that paper and then if the paper refuses to give him justice and he wishes to denounce it, he should identify it and not make a charge against newspapers in general.

YALOBUSHA RIVER PROPERTY OWNERS, TAKE NOTICE.

An important meeting has been called to meet in the city of Greenwood, August 10, to consider the handling of the waters of the Yazoo river, and its tributaries. This meeting grows out of the Flood Control law recently enacted by congress and is but a part of a great plan to control the waters of the Mississippi river and its tributaries. The National government has had a corps of surveyors on the Yalobusha river for some weeks. They began their survey at the mouth of the Scuna canal. The meeting in Greenwood will most likely be attended by some engineers representing the War Department, by one or more of our senators and by some of the state's congressmen and other notables. Plans will no doubt be discussed and a program for handling the waters of the Yazoo, Tallahatchie and Yalobusha rivers will most probably be tentatively agreed upon. Therefore it is that the meeting is a very important one to Grenada, to this county and more particularly to those who have property adjacent to the river, hence it would be well for a goodly number of Grenada citizens to be present at that meeting.

CLARION LEDGER MAKES SNAPPY STATEMENT ABOUT WEBBER.

The Clarion-Ledger fires this brief and deadly shot at Webber Wilson because of Wilson's charge that the newspapers are printing "slop not fit for hogs to eat".

It says:

> "This slop in the newspapers ain't fit for the hogs to eat," says Congressman Wilson who now aspires to sit in the greatest deliberative body in the world.
>
> Well, The Clarion-Ledger pleads guilty to printing some "slop." Every newspaper is forced to do this, but thank goodness, The Clarion-Ledger has spared its readers the necessity of reading or skipping the "slop" that has been sent to this office by Congressman Wilson's press organization.
>
> In fact, for real sloppy slop, Congressman Wilson's organization has made a new record for this state. Nothing like it has ever before found its way into newspaper offices, and on the wastebaskets.

WEBBER WOULD—IF.

If Webber Wilson's record in congress had not been practically a goose egg; if there had been no congressional record book; if Alf Stone had not written his letter; if the Levee Board had not gone on record commending Stephens for his work on the Flood Control bill; if Hubert Stephens had not made a most creditable and working record in congress and if Judge Holmes had not stated what he did—well, Webber might have fared better as a result of the Neshoba debate.

WEBBER GOT MAD.

It is stated by some of those who heard the debate Tuesday at Neshoba Fair between Senator Stephens and Congressman Webber Wilson that Webber got mad and that he told one man on the front seat who was cheering for Stephens that if he did not like what he was saying to get out, but it appears that the man felt that he did not ask Webber's permission to get in and that he thought Webber was not the proper one to consult about getting out.

Webber Wilson is in the fix that one always gets himself into when he starts out to run for an important office and bases his campaign on the alleged shortcomings of his opponent.

LIVE STOCK

CLEANLINESS IS SWINE ESSENTIAL

Pigs did not acquire their reputation as filth-loving animals until after man had domesticated them. In the wild state the pig is a clean animal. Even under the highly domesticated conditions on farms they still show their preference for clean quarters by making bigger gains on less feed and with less sickness and fewer deaths.

Most common of the several parasitic worms which infest hogs raised under insanitary conditions is the common roundworm. It is six to ten inches long and shaped like an earthworm. The adults live in the small intestine and the females lay more than a million eggs a month. These eggs, which are microscopic in size, are passed out with the feces of the pig to contaminate the pen. Within two or three weeks after the egg has been in the open a tiny worm develops inside it. In this stage the eggs may remain alive for months or even years. When picked up during feeding these worms hatch in the small intestine, pass through the intestinal wall, migrate to the liver and later to the lungs. Here the irritation they produce causes the pig to cough and "thump."

The worst damage done by these worms, however, results largely from the injuries which they cause during their migrations. These injuries are large enough to permit the entrance of innumerable disease germs. For instance, the organism that causes pig typhoid, or necrotic enteritis, as well as the germs causing other filth-borne disease, gain a foothold in the injuries caused by the worms.

Worm expellers and medicated minerals will expel the adult worms but they are useless against the damage done by the migrating young worms. The swine sanitation system is a way of avoiding all this damage. As most farmers know, the essentials of this system are clean pastures not used for hogs the previous year. The pigs are hauled, not driven, to these clean pastures and kept there until they are at least four months old. When properly carried out this system of management keeps pigs free from roundworms, whipworms, lungworms and almost all of the diseases, with the exception of cholera, to which pigs are subject.

Mating and Breeding of Sheep in September Best

The breeding season of the ewe usually commences in this country about September. A ewe will come in heat every fifteen or thirty days, generally every month, and the period lasts from two to three days. The gestation period is somewhat irregular from 142 to 150 days. Old shepherds figure on about 20 weeks.

To encourage a ewe to take the ram early and to have the whole flock lamb as near a certain time as possible, the old custom of flushing is practiced extensively. This is done by feeding a little grain and juicy feed, such as rape, green rye, or roots. In this way the genital organs are stimulated and the ewe is more likely to conceive. It is also claimed that a greater number of twins will be dropped where flushing is practiced.

The advantage of early lambs is recognized by all breeders wherever shelter can be provided for the ewes and lambs. It may seem rather cold to have lambs in February, yet the farmer or young shepherd will have more time to attend the flock at that part of the season. Later in the year work in the fields is a cause of neglect. By May and June the early lambs will be in good condition to go on grass and in every respect surpass the later ones.

Popularity of Silage for Feeding to Steers

The popularity of silage for steer feeding is increasing, especially since its use is becoming better understood. Through the growing period it can be fed to about the same extent as to dairy-bred animals of similar relative development, but with the approach of the fattening stage and its requirement for a more concentrated ration, the grain is increased without a corresponding increase in the amount of silage fed.

The rate and economy of gains made by silage-fed steers justify the more general adoption of this feed for beef production, especially where pasturage is limited or uncertain. The same is true to a certain extent with sheep. Moderate feeding is the rule and more careful regard to the quality of the silage.

Protein Supplement for Hogs 'Hogging' Off Corn

It will usually pay to feed hogs a protein supplement or protein supplemental mixture while they are hogging off corn. Such a protein supplemental feed as tankage alone, or any good protein supplemental mixture, can be self-fed or perhaps preferably fed at the rate of about one-fourth of a pound of the protein supplement per pig per day. It is also desirable to have a mineral mixture, such as a mixture of 40 per cent animal feed bonemeal, 40 per cent finely ground limestone, and 20 per cent salt before pigs that are hogging off corn, though it is not so essential that a mineral mixture be provided for pigs pasturing corn as for pigs being fed in a dry lot.

NATIONAL COTTON SHOW TO FEATURE COTTON PRODUCTS

Memphis, Tenn.—All indications are that the National Cotton Show to be held in connection with the Tri-State Fair and National Dairy Show, at Memphis, October 13 to 20, is destined to be one of the country's outstanding agricultural and industrial events of the year, and at the same time, the most popular and comprehensive cotton show ever held.

The romance of "King Cotton" will be fully presented from the time its use was confined to the manufacturer of cloth, when it was spun into thread on the old style spinning wheel of the years ago, on through its marvelous development until today the cotton plant products and by-products are numbered by the hundreds.

The cotton manufacturing machinery display will present the amazing contrast between the crude and laborious machines of the south's earliest days and the marvelous and intricate machines of the present time. The many requests for display space by cotton manufacturers insure a display of all kinds of products from common twine to the latest patterns in rayon silk, making this a show of great general interest.

The one stalk cotton contest with prizes totalling $10,000.00 cannot fail to attract the greatest display of choice cotton ever exhibited, as boys and girls by the hundreds, are vieing with their fathers in an effort to win the $1,500.00 cash prize that goes to the grand champion stalk.

The varieties of cotton, the kind and methods of fertilization used, and the spacing and cultivation of the prize winners stalks will all be shown making the show a real force in promoting the economical production of more and better cotton.

Entries close on September 15. For full information and entry blanks address Frank D. Fuller, Secretary, Tri-State Fair, Memphis, Tennessee.

MRS. L. A. SMITH DIED AT AGE 87

Mrs. L. A. Smith, age 87 years, passed away at her home in Grenada on Saturday, July 28, and her remains were laid to rest Sunday afternoon in Odd Fellows' cemetery after funeral services conducted by Dr. J. R. Countiss, president of Grenada College. Mrs. Smith is survived by two grandchildren, J. A Martin, Jr., of Clarksdale and Mrs. L. T. Musselwhite, of Jackson, Miss. She had met many of the ups and downs of life but as the years passed she developed more and more an individuality and those elements of character that show one's heart and mind are set upon the higher and better things of life. She had long been a member of the Baptist church and the last sad rites would have been said by a Baptist minister had there been one in Grenada. She lived through several generations and naturally saw life from many angles. The Sentinel tenders sympathy to those who mourn.

BROTHER OF GRENADIAN GETS AIR MAIL ROUTE

Announcement was made a few days ago by the postoffice department at Washington that the lowest bidder for the new Chicago-Atlanta air mail route was Mr. E. W. Romberger, of Atlanta. Mr. Romberger, who is a brother of Mr. F. C. Romberger, is a prominent young business man of the Georgia city. He was reared in Water Valley and is quite well known in north Mississippi where he has many friends.

He was one of the first aviators in Mississippi, flying when aviation was in its nfancy. He made an enviable record in the air services of the United States during the world war and, at the close of the great conflict, he did not allow his interest in flying to wane. The airplane company with which he is associated owns a fleet of several planes and they expect to operate a passenger service in conjunction with their mail service between Chicago and Atlanta.

UNSIGNED ITEMS

The Sentinel has repeatedly stated in its columns that it cannot and will not publish communications, no matter how trivial or inconsequential they may seem, that come to it through the mails without a signature. Several were received this week and all of them are items that this paper would be delighted to carry in its news columns. The source of every piece of news must be known and, in future, those who think enough of an item to send it in will please attach their signatures thereto.

GORE SPRINGS SCHOOL OPENS AUGUST 24TH

The school authorities have made arrangements for opening school at Gore Springs, Friday, August 24. The exercises will begin promptly at ten o'clock a. m. Preparation has been made for an impressive opening. J. T. Calhoun, member of the state department of education, has accepted an invitation to come and deliver an address. Other speakers will also be on hand.

It is hoped that every patron of the school will be present for the exercises. As has been the custom for several years, an old-fashioned basket dinner will be spread at the noon hour. Visitors are cordially invited to come and enjoy the exercises and the refreshments with the good people of Gore Springs community.

This is the first time that the institution has offered twelve grades of work. Everything is being done that is possible to do with the funds available to make this year's work a great success. The physical equipment will be up-to-date. New teachers' desks and chairs and more new desks for students are being purchased and will be installed by the opening date. More money is being spent for laboratory supplies to take care of an additional science course. The students will have greater opportunities to do good work this session than they have had in previous years. Other improvements will be made throughout the year as needed.

There will be some new members on the faculty this session to take the places of those of last year who did not choose to return. Every member of the faculty has had college training and sixty per cent of the members are graduates of A-grade colleges.

The following are the teachers: O. D. Spratlin, principal; Miss Carol Fuqua, Amory, Miss., high school; Miss Pearl Chisholm, Bay Springs, Miss., seventh and eighth grades; Miss Cora Mae Townsend, Kilmichael, Miss., intermediate grades; and Mrs. O .D. Spratlin, primary grades.

court, doing all in their power to thwart the officers and to obstruct justice. If we are to be safe in our business and our homes, if we are to hand down a worthy civilization to our children, we must sometimes lay aside our personal affairs and lend our presence and our aid to those charged with the administration of the laws.

"It seems to be generally understood that a white man was last week indicted on charges of heinous crime, shocking to every sense of decency and right, invading the most sacred rights of home and family. Rumor has it that persistent and insidious efforts were made to prevent the indictment. However, the jurors evidently felt that they could not ignore the evidence and pass over the alleged crime without violating their solemn oaths before Almighty God, nor without flouting the best thought of our people and leaving a stain upon the fair name of our county.

"What the grand jury is reported to have done only intiates this matter. The further proper handling of the case rests both upon the fidelity of our officers and upon those who believe the law is the best possible shield for home and womanhood. Belief without action is futile, and this case must be followed up with intelligent and aggressive effort. The negroes involved in this affair as offended parties must be given to understand that the white race is behind them and will stand by them when efforts are made to so frighten or terrorize them that they would fear to appear in court. Truth, right, justice can hurt no good man. White people have the law, the officers, the courts. and in cases of this sort is their duty to measure up to the responsibilities resting upon them, or bring down the penalty that awaits those who are wantonly indifferent or criminally careless.

"We appeal to our citizens to rally to the courts and see that the trial of this case is not turned into a mockery of justice, that the verdict shall not be construed as an endorsement of a fiendish deed. Let the facts be fully and fairly developed regardless of the consequences to any individual.

"We most insistently urge our supervisors to continue to exercise the utmost care in placing names in the jury box, knowing that intelligent and upright jurors constitute the surest protection of the innocent and the greatest terror to the guilty. We desire only to aid our courts in clearing the innocent and convicting the guilty. To the end that this may be done, we invoke the assistance of all the law-abiding citizens of the good county of Grenada.

The Old Folks Home

We again invite the attention of our people to the call of humanity and charity in taking their share of interest in the old folks home. This institution, organized 7 years ago, is a part of the charge of our people which at one time they were enthusiastic about but lately they seem to be satisfied to let it drag along with only a few of our people taking any interest in it. Considering the expenses and upkeep of the institution we do not function as we should. The hope at the beginning, was to get our people so interested that they would see to it that they contributed regularly to its care. It seems that we are satisfied to let others carry all of the burden and we only share in the fact that we have an up-to-date institution for the care of our people who are down and out. We call upon you to awake and rise to the call of duty. Make some sacrifice and send something for its support. It is easy to get it in the hands of some one who will see that it gets into the proper channel to do the good whereunto it is sent. Give it to your pastor, pay it at the Grenada Bank, or to any authorized solicitor. We hope you will do it. The association meets the first Sunday of each month and your presence at any or all of the meetings will be an inspiration. Come out to the school building next Sunday, Aug. 5, at 2:30. Your presence will be appreciated.

Mrs. Leona Thompson, of Memphis, Tenn., is visiting in the City Beautiful, the guest of Mrs. Watt Cain. On Tuesday evening of this week Mrs. Cain entertained in her honor. Mrs. Thompson was born and reared in this city and is the daughter of Grenada's oldest citizens, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reddick. She seems to be enjoying the outing among friends and acquaintances.

Miss Edna E. Wright and Eddie Ward of this city are in St. Louis, visiting relatives and friends and write that they are having a good time.

Miss Harry Mae Summerfield, of Union City, Tenn., is spending her vacation with Miss Lillie E. Phillips of this city and is enjoying herself among her relations and old associates. Harry Mae is the daughter of one of our old citizens who was reared in Grenada. The smart set of this community has already recognized her presence by parties and various solicitations.

Misses Rosie Lee and Lottie Bell Cain, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Cain, returned from their summer vacation and say they had an ideal time visiting their relatives at Winona and West. The Misses M. E. Cain and Ethel Sullens who are friends of the Cain girls, returned home with them to spend a few days.

Grenada's young set will be glad to show their interest in their enjoyment while in the city. Both these young ladies represent the best in their home life and are loyal to Sunday School and general church work.

Mrs. Carrie Golden, one of the leading ladies of this community, is in the hospital in Memphis for an operation which has been successfully performed and at this writing she is doing well. The entire community is hopeful that all will be well to the end and that she will soon be at home to her family and many friends.

BILE MOST PERFECT LAXATIVE IN WORLD

Medical Science has learned that bile, prepared by the liver, is Nature's greatest weapon against constipation. When the flow of bile is not sufficient, constipation inevitably follows and when a proper flow of bile takes place in the normal individual, constipation does not exist.

Bile is also a powerful digestant, without which food can not be properly assimiliated. Bile is Nature's antiseptic, which lessens bacterial growth in the intestines and combats putrefaction and the formation of gas. It is an alkaline and counteracts hyperacidity.

Bile is, in fact, a veritable life-sustaining fluid. If we lack it, the entire system becomes deranged, causing dyspepsia, indigestion, toxic poisoning, disturbed heart action, headaches, nervousness, overloading of kidneys with consequent excess of uric acid in the blood, mental depression, loss of vitality, biliousness, sleeplessness and other common ailments.

In short, if your liver becomes sluggish and fails to produce a sufficient flow of bile, good health is utterly impossible.

When Sargon is given to people suffering from deficient bile flow, the following improvements are noted in the majority of cases.

The appetite increases, the complexion clears; indigestion, gas bloating and hyperacidity are overcome. Constipation disappears and a sense of well-being and mental alertness replaces a dragging body and depressed mind. All this is accomplished by simply increasing the supply of Nature's own digestant and laxative tonic—bile.

Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills contain the most effective stimulant to the bile-producing activity of the liver known to materia medica. Unlike calomel, this substance does not upset the system, cause nausea or other ill effects so common to calomel and other artificial cathartics and laxatives which bring no real or permanent relief, and in most cases, actually do more harm than good.

This is only one of the important physiological effects of Sargon. It is also designed to build up the richness and vigor of the blood stream, to stimulate glandular activity, and it contains other ingredients of recognized therapeutic value which impart tone and strength to the entire system and are valuable for their influence on the appetite and digestion.

Sargon Soft Mass Pills are a necessary part of the Sargon treatment. They should be taken daily in connection with Sargon until regularity of bowel movement is established. Then and then only should their use be discontinued.

Sargon may be obtained in Grenada from Corner Drug Store.

BIRTHS REPORTED FROM GRENADA COUNTY FOR JUNE

If you have a baby born in June in the above named county, and you do not see your name in the list of births printed below, you should have strong reason to believe that your baby's birth has not been recorded as the law directs, and the interests of your family demand.

If you know of some other birth that has occurred in June and you see no mention of the fact in the list, will you kindly try to notify that family that the matter should be investigated?

The Bureau of Vital Statistics should be notified of every neglected birth registration, and should have the names and addresses of the family and attendant in each case. This is too important a matter to the families concerned and to the State to pass over lightly.

"Flies have caused more deaths than all wars," says Major Ransom of the Medical Department of the United States Army. "Since the fly came into the world it has been synonymous with epidemics of pestilence and disease." But with FLY-TOX it is a very simple easy matter to rid the house of flies—to keep it fresh and clean, free of insect taint. FLY-TOX is the scientific insecticide developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Fellowship. Simple instructions for killing ALL household insects on blue labeled bottles. Lesson for August 5

THE FIRST FOREIGN MISSIONARIES

LESSON TEXT—Acts 13:1-52

GOLDEN TEXT—Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul and His Friends Go to Tell Others About Jesus.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Paul Found His Life Work.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Holy Spirit in Missions.

This lesson marks the beginning of foreign missions as the deliberately planned enterprise of the church. The occasion for the beginning of this work was a meeting of certain prophets and teachers at Antioch. While these ministers were engaged in praying the Lord laid upon their hearts so heavily the envangelization of the world that they refrained from eating in order to seek the will of the Lord in prayer. This is the kind of fasting that meets God's approval.

I. Barnabas and Saul Sent Forth (vv. 2, 3).

The Spirit directed the church to send forth Barnabas and Saul to the work whereunto He had called them. The Spirit called and the church seconded the motion by sending those who were Spirit-called. A real call to missionary service comes from the Holy Spirit. It should be the concern of the church to constantly seek the mind of the Spirit relative to the sending forth of laborers into the Lord's vineyard. It is to be noted that the Spirit called and the church sent the very best men from their company at Antioch. This is as it should be. Success in the mission field is dependent upon the laying of her best men and women upon the altar by the church.

II. Barnabas and Saul Preaching the Word of God in Cyprus (vv. 4, 5).

After a second season of prayer and fasting the church formally ordained these first foreign missionaries for their work. Ordination by the imposition of hands has its proper place. Cyprus being the home of Barnabas perhaps accounts for their first going to this country. It is most natural that those who have heard the good news should go first to their kindred and friends. Then, too, Barnabas was acquainted with the country and people and could thus be assured of a proper hearing among them. Andrew first went to his brother, and the man out of whom the demons were cast was commanded by Christ to go home and tell what great things the Lord had done for him (Luke 9:39).

III. Barnabas and Saul Withstood by Elymas, the Sorcerer (vv. 6-12).

Sergius Paulus, the deputy, invited Barnabas and Saul to tell him of the Word of God. Elymas maliciously sought to turn the deputy's mind from the faith. This first obstacle encountered, as the gospel was being carried to the heathen world, was overcome through the power of the Holy Spirit. Paul denounced Elymas in most scathing terms, calling him the child of the devil, declaring that he was full of guile and villainy, pronouncing him the enemy of all righteousness, and accusing him of perverting the right ways of the Lord.

IV. Paul and Barnabas in the Synagogue at Antioch in Pisidia (vv. 13-16).

From Paphos Paul and Barnabas with Mark went northward to Perga. It is from this place, perhaps because of hardship, that Mark went back. He started out with good intentions, but the trials seemed too great for him to endure. Mark redeemed himself later, though when they started on their second missionary journey Paul would not consent for Mark to accompany them, although he later testified in Mark's favor (II Tim. 4:11). From Perga they went to Antioch in Pisidia and entered the synagogue on the Sabbath day. While he was the apostle to the Gentiles he began with the Jews. After the usual reading of the Scriptures, in response to the invitation of the rulers, Paul delivered his first recorded sermon. This sermon is worthy of careful study. When analyzed we find it had four parts. 1. Historical (vv. 17-23). 2. Political (vv. 24-27). 3. Doctrinal (vv. 38, 39). 4. Practical (vv. 40, 41).

The effect of this sermon was that many Jews and proselytes requested to hear these words again. Almost the whole city came to hear the Word of God the next Sabbath. While many came to hear these words jealousy provoked open opposition.

CHILDREN'S FATAL DISEASES

Worms and parasites in the intestines of children undermine health and so weaken their vitality that they are unable to resist the diseases so fatal to child life. The safe course is to give a few doses of White's Cream Vermifuge. It destroys and expels the worms without the slightest injury to the health or activity of the child. Price 35c. Sold by

SHADE FOR SHEEP IN HOT WEATHER

Lying in the sun under a heavy woolen blanket is no more pleasant for sheep than for humans. If pastures do not have the necessary shade, therefore, some cheaply built shelter from the sun makes sheep growing more profitable.

Prof. R. S. Curtis, animal husbandman at the North Carolina State college, states that shade for sheep is just as essential as for hogs. While the hogs suffer from heat because of fat bodies and physical construction, sheep also suffer because of the heavy wool with which they are covered. It is easy to build a combined corral and shade structure where the sheep may be protected at night from prowling dogs and from the heat of the noonday sun.

Such a structure is usually about 16 feet square with a projecting roof, higher through the center and sloping to the sides. The four corner posts are usually 3½ feet high and the two center posts about 5½ or 6 feet from the ground. This is not so material, but the shed must not be too low. Free circulation of air as well as protection from the sun is desired.

Professor Curtis suggests that each gable end be boarded tightly and in winter the northern end might be closed with a removable door. The shelter should be so placed that it will obstruct the morning and afternoon sunlight. Heavy woven wire about the shelter, buried 6 or 8 inches in the ground, will make this shelter ideal for use as a corral.

Another suggestion Professor Curtis makes is to bed down the shelter if the soil is of a heavy clay. Otherwise the sheep may get badly soiled. Such a shelter is also a good place in which to keep the salt box.

The cost of such a building is negligible, since the roofing is the most expensive part, but they are essential for pastures where there is not sufficient natural shade.

Skillful Inbreeding Is Useful in Improvement

Inbreeding of animals, in the opinion of experts in the United States Department of Agriculture, is one of the most effective practices in the improvement of live stock. However, unless directed with skill and understanding and followed by intelligent selection of the progeny, inbreeding may have undesirable consequences. Inbreeding should be practiced only by the most skillful breeders, and by them only when they have definite knowledge of the ancestry of the animals involved. The purchaser of inbred males, however, need have no fear of using them if they are superior representatives of the breed. As a matter of fact he should prefer inbred males to others, especially if they are not related to his females, because they are more nearly pure in their hereditary make-up, and for that reason are more likely to reproduce themselves with uniformity. They should be sold under a guaranty of replacement if they do not breed. It is a general rule that inbred animals when bred to unrelated ones, even though the latter are themselves inbred, produce offspring larger and more vigorous than either parent.

Heavy Losses Recorded Annually in Marketing

Records show from 85,000 to 105,000 hogs die annually in transit from loading points to terminal markets in the country and the number of hogs crippled approximates 140,000 to 170,000 head annually. Losses from these two sources average around $5 for every carload of 70 hogs shipped to market, when figuring dead hogs at $25 per head and cripples at $6. This would give a total annual loss on the country's hog crop of about $3,500,000.

LIVE STOCK NOTES

Pig vaccination is cheap insurance.

* * *

The fact is that alfalfa hay should be provided for all farm live stock.

* * *

This is the time of the year to be on the lookout for the spread of hog cholera.

* * *

Alfalfa hay is the biggest aid there is in reducing the cost of making beef.

* * *

A sow may be given a thin slop of bran and middlings 24 hours after farrowing.

* * *

Many pigs are lost at farrowing time because they become chilled immediately after they are born.

* * *

Brood sows should always be given attention at farrowing time and particularly when they farrow in cold weather.

* * *

Sheep have an advantage over other meat-producing animals in that the ewes will produce a crop of wool as well as a crop of lambs.

* * *

Young stock closely housed will not grow nearly so well as those that spend most of their time in the open when the weather is not too bad.

* * *

Corn silage and clover hay and a mixture of 600 pounds of shelled corn and 100 pounds of linseed meal make a very good ration to fatten baby beef calves.

THINKS ODD FELLOWS CEMETERY IS NEGLECTED

The communication which appears below was written by one of the state's prominent citizens whose mother's remains lie beneath the sod in Odd Fellows' cemetery. The writer intended it for publication, hence it is being given space in these columns:

"Sometime ago, while in Grenada, I went out to Odd Fellows' cemetery and was very much surprised and disappointed in the condition I found there. I have been in several cemeteries lately and regret very much to say that I found yours - or rather, ours - suffering by comparison.

"In writing this letter, I hope that you will take it in the proper spirit, because there is not one who could possibly be more interested in this sacred spot than am I - it is there that my mother has slept for more than a quarter of a century and it is there that I expect to be placed.

"I am sending you my check for $5.00. I am going to ask that you cash this check and turn the money over to the proper authorities to help put our cemetery in the proper condition."

(Note by editor: We are glad that our friend and correspondent has written what he has. There is no place more sacred in the hearts and life of the people of Grenada than Odd Fellows' Cemetery. There all that is mortal of hundreds and hundreds of our loved ones and friends lies and, regardless of whatever else may come, no people can afford to neglect the places where their departed lie. We are not prepared to say that our friend is wholly correct in his statement, but we can say that he believes what he has written to be true. We will say, however, that during the past two or three years many times the cemetery has appeared not to be so well cared for as in years gone by. The weeds and the grass in instances have been allowed to grow and get too high. It is likewise true that the good women of Grenada who have given unstintedly of their time and love to the care of Odd Fellows' Cemetery have at times felt like fainting by the wayside because of not having received the proper encouragement and the proper support from many from whom they had a right to expect a support that will go to pay sextons and general hired help.

Let's put our heads together and do something that will give adequate funds for caring for this hallowed spot for the years to come. Is there not some way to create an endowment? Would it not be well to ask the city of Grenada to quadruple its annual donation? Donations are frequently made by the city to causes far less worthy.)

ANOTHER EFFORT TO CHALLENGE MR. BUSBY

(Political Advertisement)

A month ago Mr. Aldridge issued a challenge to Mr. Busby for a joint speaking canvass of the district, which was ignored by Mr. Busby until July 9th, when he wrote a belated reply, declining. Among the reasons assigned was that "there seemed to be no issues between us." That left us flat as to meeting Mr. Busby on a legitimate level. Neither is Mr. Busby disposed to criticise Mr. Aldridge's charge that Mr. Busby has no record as a congressman.

Mr. Busby is extremely lofty and disdainful in sharing with us and the people he has represented for three terms in congress, the merits or demerits of his service, and forces us to the personal equation, or to the sacred domain of his "private affairs," which is so offensive to him, for an issue on which to base a contest with him. But fortunately we feel prepared to make out our case with Mr. Busby on his own terms, and so here goes:

Mr. Busby was "raised 11 miles in the country on a small farm up in Tishomingo county."

Mr. Aldridge was raised 16 miles in the country, on a small farm up in Montgomery county.

Mr. Busby "worked hard because he was a boy when money was scarce."

Mr. Aldridge also worked hard—(gosh, we can all qualify on that).

Mr. Busby "plowed, hoed, cut persimmon, sweetgum and all other kind of sprouts, in addition to breaking up rooty new grounds on rock hill sides."

Challenge No. 1.—Mr. Busby can set any time or place 'twixt now and election day, make his own selection of any or all of the above accomplishments, and if Mr. Aldridge cannot do more work in a day than Mr. Busby, then Mr. Aldridge will withdraw from the race for Congress.

Mr. Busby knows "which end of the plow to put the wedge under to make the plow run right, which hole of the buckhead to put the lapring in and where to set the backband to give the plow the proper dip."

Challenge No. 2.—If Mr. Busby will give enough of his time to make a day's work of the contest, Mr. Aldridge agrees to do either or all of the above things quicker and more expertly than Mr. Busby; three competent men to judge this contest; if Mr. Busby wins, he gets a piece of Mr. Aldridge's Mississippi land; if Mr. Aldridge wins, he gets a piece of Mr. Busby's Washington property of equal value.

Mr. Busby has "made enough cross-ties to build a respectable railroad" and knows how to "buck" a cut and get two ties where many people could get but one. He can hew a face as smooth as you ever saw and the tie won't be "scored under." He has been a timber cutter and can tell the "second lean" of a tree the minute he looks at it, so as to properly fall it and prevent "splitting it up." He has taken his turn in carrying slabs and plank from the saw, and knows the difference between quarter sawing oak and gum.

Challenge No. 3.—Mr. Aldridge is out speaking this week, trying to offer sensible reasons why he should be elected to Congress. His campaign manager is twiddling his thumbs and doing this. We are taking a shot on proposing the same terms on the cross-ties as in Challenge No. 1.

Mr. Busby "was about to leave off something." He rode his first train in the fall after he was 16 years old in July. Robinson's Ten Big Shows Combined came to Corinth and his father gave him $4 to go from Iuka to see it.

In the absence of accurate data on Mr. Aldridge's first circus, his first train ride and how he financed the trip, we are under some constraint in offering a challenge, but if Mr. Busby had any more fun out of it than did Mr. Aldridge, then the pink lemonade and peanuts are on us.

Mr. Busby attended his four months' country school; got a teacher's license; taught school.

Mr. Aldridge did likewise, ditto and the same.

Mr. Busby graduated in and practiced law.

Mr. Aldridge didn't.

Mr. Busby quit practicing law four years ago. Prior to that time, we are led to infer that he had also ceased plowing, hoeing, setting back-bands, buckling be—under bands, hooking laprings, twisting plow-lines over old beck and "rolling the dry clods pro and con" in the classic language of our old friend Bill Stegall. We are also to judge that getting out cross-ties is one of Mr. Busby's abandoned avocations.

He has a small farm, which he tries to operate to the best advantage, "but usually at a disadvantage." (His constituents would no doubt do Mr. Busby a favor by giving him an opportunity to devote his entire time and talents to developing that little farm). "This is the only business I have," quoth Mr. Busby, and it is quite obvious the rank injustice that would be done him by keeping him in Congress and away from his "only business."

We are violating no confidence when we say that Mr. Busby has no business, except that of congressman. We are taking his own unimpeachable word for it. He has abandoned the honorable avocations and callings in which he seems to take so much pride as the vehicle for his early achievements. If he has done anything in Congress, he won't mention it himself or let us talk about it without a peevish display of pouting resentment.

If he won't accept any of our above challenges, perhaps he'll run us a foot-race, play us a game of checkers, shoot marbles, pitch horse-shoes or give us a rat-catching contest. Anything to get Mr. Busby off of his high horse and from beneath the glaring electric lights. We want him to doff the tailor-made clothes from Washington, D. C., don the habiliments of his youth; run his limousine with the Washington tag into the garage; crank up his Ford, put a Mississippi license tag on it and strut his stuff. That's the good old game of politics—mild, soothing and vitalizing.

A Pledge

The Sentinel, here and now, wants to assure those comprising the membership of the Young Men's Business Club that it is ready, willing and eager to go the limit in cooperating with them in any and every movement tending to the upbuilding of Grenada and the territory surrounding. We urge every other business interest in the community to put its shoulder to the wheel and to make of Grenada a bigger, a better, a happier and a more prosperous city. With each lending support, we can accomplish great things. Without the help of every citizen, we can do nothing.
